Therese will share the story of The Boîte's remarkable and heart-warming history. She will select some of the most exciting moments from her 40-year involvement and will introduce listeners to the story of charismatic artists who have presented their music to audiences across that time.

What brought you to U3A?

I joined U3A back in 2016 so that I could meet people in my local community and explore fields that might broaden my horizons.

Tell us about your background in the subject you're teaching.

I love eating out and exploring different cuisines, so it's a win-win activity for me. The group includes people who are great to talk to, fun to be with and very knowledgeable reading! I have an eclectic choice of reading material, not favouring books of any particular genre. I've discovered Borrow Box and I listen to audiobooks while I'm driving. I also enjoy spending time in the garden and getting my hands into the soil. Walking my dog is a pleasure and we can check out the gardens in the area as we go along. And spending time with family and brings me great joy.

I relax by ...

At the moment I am reading...

Wifedom by Anna Funder and listening to The Forgotten Bookshop in Paris by Sarah Winman. Also ploughing through Brain Food by Lisa Mosconi.

I am passionate about ...

keeping my contribution to landfill to a minimum and learning new ways to try and protect the environment as best as I can.

My school report usually said ...

she talks too much! I remember that from all the little blue report books we had from Form 1 to 6.

My last meal would be ...

hot and spicy curry and rice, hopefully prepared by a Sri Lankan chef, with a variety of sambals and pickles on the side (I was born in Colombo so the hotter the better).

If I could live anywhere I would choose.....

Brunswick, where I live now. I love its vibrant multicultural atmosphere, reflected in the wide variety of places to eat out and buy food and places to eat. That's why I moved to Brunswick many years ago.

Guiltiest pleasure ...

is visiting nurseries and seeing what I can buy to fill a spot in my garden. There is always a spot that can be conjured up and way too many plants to buy.

What I don't find amusing...

racism both covert and overt.

Cat or Dog?

For loyalty, it's my dog who is sitting beside me as I type this and who greets me enthusiastically every time I came home. And who sleeps on my bed when I'm not at home – he isn't supposed to do that! I have a cat too, who sits on my lap in the evening, rolls over for belly rubs, and who also torments the poor dog – he's terrified of her!

If only I could...

If I could change a moment in my life, it would be.....

There are things I wish hadn't happened but I've learnt that through life's experiences, we grow and develop. So I just try to move forward and keep learning.
